

Position Title: Indigenous Seed Keepers Network Program Coordinator

Part-time employee (25 hours per week)
Reports to: Program Manager (Shiloh Maples)

The Native American Food Sovereignty Alliance (NAFSA) is a national network of Indigenous leaders dedicated to restoring food systems that support tribal self-determination and community wellness. NAFSA supports ethical economic development by promoting expanded local food production that renews natural resources and enhances traditional cultural activities. NAFSA brings together proven strategies with innovative thinking as we mentor a new generation of Native food sovereignty activists, farmers and practitioners.

NAFSA is seeking a Program Coordinator for the Indigenous Seed Keepers Network to join our team. This position will provide coordination of one of our signature programs, the Indigenous Seed Keepers Network (ISKN).

Indigenous Seed Keepers Network Program Coordinator

The Indigenous Seed Keepers Network (ISKN) Coordinator will provide program leadership and coordinate implementation of the strategic vision. In the beginning, the ISKN Program Coordinator will work closely with the existing Upper Midwest and newly established Northeast networks to further develop their regional seed hubs. Eventually, the Program Coordinator will work with leadership in other regions to establish seed hubs in their respective areas. The Program Coordinator will work closely with Regional Mentors to offer capacity-building training, workshops and gatherings to strengthen regional networks. The ISKN Program Coordinator is a highly interactive, relationship-driven role that promotes communication and collaboration across the national network. The ideal candidate should be a dynamic individual who is deeply passionate about the Indigenous food and seed sovereignty movement with excellent virtual and online communication and project management skills. This is a remote work from home position, but the individual must have the ability to travel for region seed work/networking.

The mission of the Indigenous Seed Keepers Network (ISKN) is to nourish and assist the growing Seed Sovereignty Movement across Turtle Island (North America). As a national network, we leverage resources and cultivate solidarity and communication within the matrix of regional grass-roots tribal seed sovereignty projects. We accomplish this mission by providing educational resources, mentorship training, outreach and advocacy support on seed policy issues, and organizing national and regional events and convenings to connect many communities who are engaging in this vital work. We aim to create a collaborative framework and declaration for ethical seed stewardship and indigenous seed guidelines for tribal communities to guide them as they protect their seeds from patenting and bio-piracy. We support the creation of solutions-oriented programs for adaptive resilient seed systems within tribal communities to enhance the creative capacity to continue to evolve as the face of our Mother Earth changes.

Essential Duties and Responsibilities:

- Research and continue to support the creation of the first Indigenous Seed Growers Cooperative
